

EX-ACCENTURE MANAGER APPOINTED HEAD OF MIDDLE EASTERN PRACTICE

LONDON, 08 November 2010: Marker Global is pleased to announce that Camille Toubassi has today joined our London-based team. Camille will be a manager on the Tailored Research product line. She is also taking over the management of the Middle East Practice from Christian Henderson, who left the firm in June 2010.

Dana Denis-Smith, Marker Global's founder and managing director, said:

"We are delighted to welcome Camille to the Marker Global team. Her breadth of expertise in Middle Eastern issues will be an asset to our clients with interests in the region."

About Camille Toubassi

Camille Toubassi joins Marker Global with over ten years of Management and Business Consulting experience accumulated at Accenture, the management consulting firm. In her role, Camille covered public and private sector clients in New York, Toronto, London and the Middle East. Educated at Smith College, the London School of Economics and King's College London, she holds a Masters degree in Middle East and Mediterranean Studies. Raised for a period of time in Saudi Arabia, now based in London, she has worked and lived across a number of countries in the Middle East, predominantly in the Levant.

About Marker Global

Marker Global is a risk advisory firm that helps clients do business in emerging markets by making them aware of regulatory, political, economic and reputational risks that could impact on their transactions. The senior team at Marker Global is supported by a team of London-based staff and manages a network of over 50 local emerging markets expert consultants. In 2009 Marker Global has received a special commendation for the title of Best Consulting Firm of the Year at the Annual Compliance Awards. The judges selected the winner in the category, PwC, and, the second placed, Marker Global, for their "contribution to the broader regulatory framework over the last 18 months of turmoil". Dana was included on this year's Management Today list of "35 Women under 35" to lead and inspire in business in the UK.
